Quotes:

Betty: When I was four, just four years old, I went to my mother and I said, "What's this hole in my chin?" -- I saw this dimple in my chin in the mirror, and didn't know what it was. And my mother said -- get what my mother says -- she says, "When you're born, you go on a assembly line past God, and if He likes you, He says,

[grabs her cheeks with both her hands]

Betty: "You cute little thing!" and you get dimples there. And if He doesn't like you, He goes, [presses one finger on her chin]

Betty: "Go away." So about six months later, my mother found me saying my prayers, and I was going, [...]

Trivia: Nick Nolte's character (Col. Oliver) is modeled in part on Lt. Gen. Roméo Dallaire, the Canadian commanding officer of the UN Peacekeeping mission in that country who attempted to interfere with the Rwandan Genocide despite his superiors' indifference to the atrocity. Dallaire was also the subject of Sundance audience award documentary Shake Hands with the Devil: The Journey of Roméo Dallaire (2004), and witnessed such horrible acts in Rwanda that he later suffered severe post-traumatic stress disorder. Despite these facts, this is the only fictional character (name and facts) depicted in the film. (more)
